About the Fall Creek Trail

First envisioned by George Kessler, the Fall Creek Greenway extends over 12 miles from northeastern Marion County to the White River. The Fall Creek Trail runs 7 miles from Skiles Test Nature Park to the Monon Rail Trail, with future extensions to the north and south. Because the trail’s alignment follows the historic George Kessler Boulevard Plan, it parallels the waterway, passing beautiful, century-old bridges and established neighborhoods. The corridor provides many opportunities for viewing and interacting with nature through three canoe launches and numerous overlooks. Users of the Fall Creek Trail can travel from 38th Street northeast to Fall Creek Road without stopping to cross a street. Recreational opportunities abound, with an asphalt trail surface suitable for walking, biking and in-line skating. When snow covered, the Fall Creek Trail is excellent for cross-country skiing. The trail continues approximately 1/4 mile into the Skiles Test Nature Park.

Volunteer opportunities are available. Call Indy Parks Greenways at: (317) 327-7431 for information or visit www.indyparks.org/greenways.
